

Tank Termometers

Product Description

A gas-station owner checking the fuel level in his station's underground tanks noticed his measuring stick getting hot. He dropped a thermometer into the tank's gasoline and was shocked to discover the explosive fuel cooking at 172°F. 5" stem stainless steel construction, fits in protective sleeve with pocket clip. Quick response 1.25" dial is magnified for easy reading. (1 lb.)

Manufacturing Materials

Body	Filter	Gasket	Screws, Nuts, Washer
Stainless Steel	S.S.	Klingrit	Stainless Steel
Carbon Steel			Graphite
			Viton

Product Description

